CHICAGO, July 23—(INS)—Bewitched, bothered and bewildered delegates to the Democratic National Convention today looked to President Truman, almost as a last resort, to show them the way to the White House.

Baffled by the continued obstinacy of Gov. Adlai Stevenson to accept the call they almost frantically tried to thrust on him yesterday, the delegates in this first un-bossed convention in 20 years openly longed for that which they had previously disclaimed—a boss.

It was evident that Mr. Truman would let them know today, via an easily-leaked message to the Missouri delegation of which he is a member. His own candidacy is not impossible.

Administration figures on hand for the convention, including Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, former Ambassador Robert Butler and oilman and heavy

Barn, Contents Destroyed By Blaze Due to Lightning

DUBLIN, July 23—Lightning struck a large barn on the Jessie B. Mellott farm on King's road in New Britain township about seven o'clock Monday night, and burned the barn to the ground causing damage estimated at $15,000 to $20,000, Fire Chief Lloyd Y. Crout-hamel, of Dublin, reports.

When the bolt struck, it apparently damaged telephone lines in the neighborhood, making phone calls for aid impossible.

Attracted by the flames, Lloyd Mill, a neighbor, drove to Dublin to call firemen. Another neighbor drove to Doylestown to call aid. Fire apparatus from Doylestown with volunteers directed by Chief Joseph W. Howe quickly responded, but the flames had gained too much headway to be overcome before they could reach the scene.

Chief Crouthamel reported the barn contained a large amount of baled hay and a considerable quantity of stored machinery.

TRUCK HITS POLE: CURRENT GOES OFF

Tullytown Firemen Called To Extinguish Blazing Pole

DRIVER WAS DAZED

LEVITTOWN, July 23—About 150 families in this new community experienced one of their first periods of life without electricity yesterday afternoon.

Shortly before noon yesterday a truck struck a pole causing several high voltage electric wires to break and set fire to the pole. Tullytown firemen arrived on the scene to put out the fire.

Patrolman Benjamin Parto, Tullytown - Levittown police, reported that the truck was operated by Francis McIlvain, 28, formerly of Johnstown, McIlvain, who is employed by the Levitt corporation, was temporarily dazed, but he was aided to safety by Tullytown firemen.

As a result of the accident, which occurred on Mill Creek road, about 150 homes in the new housing development were without electric service for about two hours.

Many of the local residents regard themselves as sort of pioneers in several ways in being among the first families to occupy the Levittown, and yesterday they had more experience in pioneer life in going without the essential service that keeps the refrigerator cooling those refreshing foods and drinks so important to living in this hot, humid weather.

Too, some families who were doing the daily wash in the automatic electric washer had to wait

In order to qualify as a candidate for "princess," a girl had to be between the ages of 13 and 16 and a resident of the township. The contest was arranged by Harold VanWert, George Sottung and Joseph Seader as part of the township youth activities for "Greater Lower Bucks County Week."

Ten girls paraded across the firehouse stage to be judged for points on the basis of evening gowns, bathing suits and talent. Besides the winner and "princess," Marlene Ehrenreich, the girls selected as runners-up and "ladies in waiting" to Marlene were Shirley Stevens and Frances Serchak, Croydon; Rita Sabatini, West Bristol; and Eva Cary, Maple Beach. The "princess" and her court will ride in one of the township floats in the mammoth parade to be held Continued on Page Three

4600 BUCKS FOLK TO RECEIVE MORE FUNDS

Social Security Payments, Beginning in October, To Be Higher

AMENDMENT RESULTS

About 4,600 people in Bucks County will receive higher social security payments beginning early in October as a result of the social security amendments enacted into law by Congress.

Ruben R. Blane, manager of the Trenton social security office, emphasized that no one needs to apply for the increased payments. "The Social Security Administration is already changing the amounts," he pointed out. "We expect to get them changed in time to have them in the mail October 3, the regular delivery date, but if in a few cases we don't meet that schedule we'll pay the old amount and make up the difference in a later check."

DRIVER WAS DAZED

LEVITTOWN, July 23 — About 150 families in this new community experienced one of their first periods of life without electricity yesterday afternoon.

Shortly before noon yesterday a truck struck a pole causing several high voltage electric wires to break and set fire to the pole. Tullytown firemen arrived on the scene to put out the fire.

Patrolman Benjamin Parto, Tullytown - Levittown police, reported that the truck was operated by Francis McIlvain, 28, formerly of Johnstown. McIlvain, who is employed by the Levitt corporation, was temporarily dazed, but he was aided to safety by Tullytown firemen.

As a result of the accident, which occurred on Mill Creek road, about 150 homes in the new housing development were without electric service for about two hours.

Many of the local residents regard themselves as sort of pioneers in several ways in being among the first families to occupy the Levittown, and yesterday they had more experience in pioneer life in going without the essential service that keeps the refrigerator cooling those refreshing foods and drinks so important to living in this hot, humid weather.

Too, some families who were doing the daily wash in the automatic electric washer had to wait Continued on Page Six

LEVITT TO CONTACT RESIDENTS OF COMMUNITY TO ARRANGE CAR-POOL TO TRANSPORT CHILDREN TO SCHOOL

Suggestion Made to Change Name of John Fitch School to Brooks School; Award Contract for Furniture for Delhaas High School Addition; To Assess Properties Recently Completed; To Advise Assessors.

The Bristol Township School Board last night in a meeting at the Delhaas High School agreed to accept William Levitt's offer of rooms in the buildings of Wistar Institute for use as temporary classrooms. This agreement was reached on the basis of the Board's understanding that Levitt's Public Relations personnel will contact every member of the new community with the view toward setting up a car-pool system to transport the children to the classrooms at the Institute buildings.

In addition, a recommendation was made by the Board to the School Authority that the $13,336.40 total bid of Garrett Buchanan Co., Phila., for furniture for the Delhaas High School addition, and for the proposed John Fitch school be accepted.

The Board also agreed to advise the Township assessor of houses in the Township which are taxable under the new ruling which makes real estate taxes available to school boards on houses as soon as they are erected. Assistance will also be given the assessor in securing the house numbers which are being assigned in districts which will receive foot mail delivery.

The decision of the Board to accept the facilities offered by Levitt as classrooms for Levittown children raised the question before the Board as to what means will be used to provide transportation of the children to the classrooms which are some distance from their (the children's) homes. It was brought out in discussion that Levitt had proposed that he would send his public relations men to each parent in the community to determine whether the parents would participate in a car-pool plan in order to transport the Continued on Page Two

1952 OLYMPIAD

America's Olympic athletes were given a big send-off in New York City, when 100,000 persons lined the streets to watch them parade while ticker tape and confetti fell from above. They started competing with the world's best in Helsinki, Finland, on July 19.

The revived Olympiads, though they have disappointed their supporters in this respect, probably do promote international understanding in a minor sort of way.

The ancient Greeks made a big thing of the original Olympic Games. Only those whose names were free from dishonor could compete. Sacrifices were made to the gods. Oaths of sportsmanship were taken. Winners were crowned with wreaths from the sacred olive and returned home heroes. Poets wrote odes to them and sculptors reproduced them in stone.

When Rome became powerful Romans were permitted to compete. But Olympic games were banned in A. D. 394 by the Roman emperor Theodosius, and the custom was abandoned for 15 centuries.

In 1878 the ancient Olympic stadium was unearthed by archaeologists, and there was talk of reviving the quadrennial games. In 1896 the first attempt was made, but not until 1908 did the event become a genuinely international affair on a big scale. In 1916 the games had to be called off because of World War I; in 1940 and 1944 World War II intervened.

This year athletes from Russia and her satellites are housed together at Otaniemi, in a camp cut off from other competitors by great forests on three sides and the Gulf of Finland on the fourth. Permission to interview and photograph the iron curtain athletes has so far been withheld.

Moscow obviously remembers the 1948 games in London where so many athletes were contaminated by bourgeois contacts that a number of them refused to go home.

Neutral Sweden is discovering what often happens to innocent bystanders.

Vaudeville has come back by way of television. It has even brought some of its jokes back with it.

Canadian slickers take $50,000,000 a year from American suckers, who seem never to be able to resist the beautiful engraving on gold mine certificates.

It will surprise no one if the two parties get some painful splinters from the platforms they are about to adopt.

America still suffers from a few shortages, but in this campaign year there are no shortages of applause, banana oil or baloney.

Levitt to Contact Residents Regarding School Car-Pool

children to the classrooms. To confirm the verbal agreements made by Levitt to the board concerning the use of rooms at the Wistar Institute, including the commitments to alter the rooms so that they will be suitable for classroom use, the board recommended that an agreement be drawn up listing the points understood by the board and presented to Levitt for confirmation.

The Board also considered the request of Levitt to change the name of the John Fitch School to the Brooks school, a move which would to some extent identify the school with the Stonybrook section of Levittown.

When this request did not receive positive action Albert Smith, secretary of the Joint Authority asked if any of the members could name any other local contractor who was offering rooms free of charge to the School Board for classrooms.

Bids for tables, desks, and chairs for Delhaas High School and John Fitch School were opened, and the low bid of the Garrett Buchanan Co. was recommended to be accepted after the only lower bid was thrown out because the furniture offered did not conform to specifications. No award of contract was made however because not a sufficient number of Authority members was present for a quorum.

have to dig down several inches in the mucky ground, while, for others she could merely shovel up the sand and make selections later. Barricudas and other predaceous tropical fish had to be guarded against.

Miss Groff laid considerable stress on the food values of many lesser known bivalves—such as coquinas and angel wings. In some cases merely the muscle which holds the shells together is edible. She told of the very large shrimp business at Cortez where the gold and pink shrimp are specialties. She had a box of shells from Nassau and a few from the Pacific, but Florida was featured with some extra large crown shells, unusual colored "Olives" or "Panamas," and pearl clams of special luster.

Miss Alma M. Campbell, Sellersville, gave a vivid account of her visits to Hawk Mountain sanctuary lying between Eckville and Drexelsville. It was in the early thirties that a New York woman heard of the great slaughter of hawks going on every fall in the Pennsylvania area. She purchased some acreage in the Ridge at the channel for the hawk's southern flight. Finally she found a young man from Boston—Maurice Braun, who was willing to make an attempt to free the mountain of hunters for hawks, who did not shoot the hawks because of any harm they were doing, but mainly as a marksmanship records. Mr. Braun and his wife by degrees won over the general public. In the past 18 years many changes have been made—a lookout, headquarters, improved road, etc. Automobiles can now safely drive to a point well up the mountain, but the final stretch must be climbed afoot. October is usually the best month. The number seen depends much on direction of the day's wind. Sharp-shinned broad wings, red-tailed,

Homemade Cookies and Iced Coffee For Your First At-Home

JUST about the time June newly-marrieds get ready to do their first entertaining, summer heat seems to settle down to stay. Best advice to the bride is this: Keep your refreshments cool and simple. A plate of homemade cookies and tall, tinkling glasses of iced coffee are a perfect expression of hot-weather hospitality.

Coffee-Coconut Cookies are simple to make—even for a beginner. Aside from that important point, they're pretty to look at and so delicious that you may find your most difficult in-laws asking for the recipe!

Be sure that your iced coffee is served at its top-notch best, too. That means that you must start with good hot coffee. If you prefer to pour it hot over ice cubes, you'll need to make it double strength and use lots of ice cubes. It can also be made regular strength if you cool it for a few hours in the refrigerator before serving. Regular-strength coffee requires two level measuring tablespoons of coffee (or one Standard Coffee Measure) to each three-quarters of a measuring cup of water for each serving.

Coffee-Coconut Cookies

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cold strong coffee
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Topping

1 1/2 cups sifted, enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream butter or margarine and sugar until light. Blend in coffee and vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together, add gradually to creamed mixture and chill. Roll out on floured board about 1/4-inch thick; cut with scalloped cookie cutter. Bake on greased cookie sheets in moderate oven, 350° F., 10-12 minutes. Cool. To make topping, combine sugar, corn syrup and coffee in saucepan, boil rapidly for about 5 minutes and cool. Brush tops of cookies with syrup. Sprinkle with toasted coconut. Makes about 4 1/2 dozen 2" cookies.

nearly every family receiving payments would receive an increase, the additional amount would not always be divided among all the members of the family receiving monthly checks. In some cases the entire increase will go to the retired worker.

Under terms of the law, most families will get an increase of about $5.30; some will get less, others will get more. A few benefits now being paid, and most of those payable in the future, will be based on earnings after 1950. The amended law provides a new formula for determining the amount of the payments in these cases. Under it, a retired worker's monthly benefit would be 55 per cent of the first $100.00 of his average monthly earnings plus 15 per cent of the remainder up to $300.00.

Beginning September 1, the new law will increase to $75.00 a month instead of $50.00 the amount of money a beneficiary may earn and still receive the monthly benefits. Self-employed people entitled to old-age and survivors insurance benefits may receive the payments for each month of the year if their net earnings during the entire year are not over $900.00.

The amended law contains a provision of special importance to self-employed people who have retired or plan to retire during 1952. Before the passage of the amendments their earnings for the year in which an application was made could not be used to figure their old-age benefit payments. Now, those self-employed people who originally applied for benefits in 1952 may re-apply at the close of the taxable year and have their 1952 earnings used in figuring their monthly benefit payments. In general, this will increase the monthly benefit payments to self-employed persons.

A similar change in the law now permits insured wage earners who retire in 1952 to have their wages for this year used immediately in figuring the amount of their benefit payments. Heretofore, it was necessary for them to come back after the end of the year in order to have all of their covered wages for 1952 included in the computation of the benefit amount.

Another amendment allows beneficiaries aged 75 or over already on the rolls to take advantage of the higher benefit payments provided under the new formula, if they have had at least a year and a half of covered work after 1950.

The amended law allows social security wage credits of $160.00 for each month of active military or naval service after July 24, 1947. This provision is simply an extension of the one which already gives social security wage credits to servicemen of World War II. It applies to service in the armed forces up to January 1, 1951.

Of advantage to the survivors of deceased service people is a provision in the amended law extending the time for claiming a lump-sum death payment. This applies to servicemen who die abroad and are later returned to the United States for burial or reburial. Survivors who pay the burial expenses may now claim reimbursement up to two years after the reburial instead of two years after the serviceman's death. Additional information on the new law may be obtained at the social security office in the Trenton Post Office Building.

For the convenience of residents of this area, a social security representative will be at the Bristol Post Office every Tuesday of each month between 10:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m.

Booklets for Servicemen To Be Provided by WSCS

HULMEVILLE, July 23 — Business transacted at the monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in Neshamony Methodist Church, last evening, was of a miscellaneous nature. Miss Adeline E. Reetz, president, had arranged a worship center featuring the open Bible, picture of Christ, and flowers arranged in an open umbrella. Tying in with this was a portion of the devotional period, presented by Mrs. George Bilger, one article being on "The Umbrella Man."

Twenty-two were in attendance, they hearing minutes of June meeting as read by Miss Louise Doan; and treasurer's report presented by Mrs. Adolph Holzworth.

Miss Nellie E. Main, who was unable to be present, sent her reports. She provided a list of items most acceptable for a missionary serving in the hot African climate, in anticipation of sending of gifts by the unit. Upon suggestion of Miss Main, who is secretary of student and youth work, the organization decided to purchase as needed, copies of the booklet, "Strength for Service to God and Country," these to be provided the servicemen from this area.

Wesley Haefner, chairman, told that 100 have signed to date that they will attend the Sunday School picnic next Saturday. Cars will leave from the church at 9:30 a. m. for Meylo Park, Perkasio.

In 1878 the ancient Olympic stadium was unearthed by archaeologists, and there was talk of reviving the quadrennial games. In 1896 the first attempt was made, but not until 1908 did the event become a genuinely international affair on a big scale. In 1916 the games had to be called off because of World War I; in 1940 and 1944 World War II intervened.

This year athletes from Russia and her satellites are housed together at Otaniemi, in a camp cut off from other competitors by great forests on three sides and the Gulf of Finland on the fourth. Permission to interview and photograph the iron curtain athletes has so far been withheld.

Moscow obviously remembers the 1948 games in London where so many athletes were contaminated by bourgeois contacts that a number of them refused to go home.

Neutral Sweden is discovering what often happens to innocent bystanders.

Vaudeville has come back by way of television. It has even brought some of its jokes back with it.

Canadian slickers take $50,000,000 a year from American suckers, who seem never to be able to resist the beautiful engraving on gold mine certificates.

It will surprise no one if the two parties get some painful splinters from the platforms they are about to adopt.

America still suffers from a few shortages, but in this campaign year there are no shortages of applesauce, banana oil or baloney.

children to the classrooms. To confirm the verbal agreements made by Levitt to the board concerning the use of rooms at the Wistar Institute, including the commitments to alter the rooms so that they will be suitable for classroom use, the board recommended that an agreement be drawn up listing the points understood by the board and presented to Levitt for confirmation.

The Board also considered the request of Levitt to change the name of the John Fitch School to the Brooks school, a move which would to some extent identify the school with the Stonybrook section of Levittown.

When this request did not receive positive action Albert Smith secretary of the Joint Authority asked if any of the members could name any other local contractor who was offering rooms free of charge to the School Board for classrooms.

Bids for tables, desks, and chairs for Delhaas High School and John Fitch School were opened, and the low bid of the Garrett Buchanan Co. was recommended to be accepted after the only lower bid was thrown out because the furniture offered did not conform to specifications. No award of contract was made however because not a sufficient number of Authority members was present for a quorum.

Miss Groff laid considerable stress on the food values of many lesser known bivalves—such as coquinas and angel wings. In some cases merely the muscle which holds the shells together is edible. She told of the very large shrimp business at Cortez where the gold and pink shrimp are specialties. She had a box of shells from Nassau and a few from the Pacific, but Florida was featured with some extra large crown shells, unusual colored "Olives" or "Panamas," and pearl clams of special lustre.

Miss Alma M. Campbell, Sellersville, gave a vivid account of her visits to Hawk Mountain sanctuary lying between Eckville and Drexelsville. It was in the early thirties that a New York woman heard of the great slaughter of hawks going on every fall in the Pennsylvania area. She purchased some acreage in the Ridge at the channel for the hawk's southern flight. Finally she found a young man from Boston—Maurice Braun, who was willing to make an attempt to free the mountain of hunters for hawks, who did not shoot the hawks because of any harm they were doing, but mainly as a marksmanship records. Mr. Braun and his wife by degrees won over the general public. In the past 18 years many changes have been made—a lookout, headquarters, improved road, etc. Automobiles can now safely drive to a point well up the mountain, but the final stretch must be climbed afoot. Homemade Cookies and Iced Coffee For Your First At-Home

JUST about the time June newly-marrieds get ready to do their first entertaining, summer heat seems to settle down to stay. Best advice to the bride is this: Keep your refreshments cool and simple. A plate of homemade cookies and tall, tinkling glasses of iced coffee are a perfect expression of hot-weather hospitality.

Coffee-Coconut Cookies are simple to make—even for a beginner. Aside from that important point, they're pretty to look at and so delicious that you may find your most difficult in-laws asking for the recipe!

Be sure that your iced coffee is served at its top-notch best, too. That means that you must start with good hot coffee. If you prefer to pour it hot over ice cubes, you'll need to make it double strength and use lots of ice cubes. It can also be made regular strength if you cool it for a few hours in the refrigerator before serving. Regular-strength coffee requires two level measuring tablespoons of coffee (or one Standard Coffee Measure) to each three-quarters of

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup cold strong coffee
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups sifted, enriched flour
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Topping

1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons strong coffee
1/2 cup corn syrup
Toasted coconut
Cream butter or margarine and sugar until light. Blend in coffee and vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together, add gradually to creamed mixture and chill. Roll out on floured board about 1/4-inch thick; cut with scalloped cookie cutter. Bake on greased cookie sheets in moderate oven, 350° F., 10-12 minutes. Cool. To make topping, combine sugar, corn syrup and coffee in saucepan, boil rapidly for about 5 minutes and cool. Brush tops of cookies with syrup. Sprinkle with toasted coconut. Makes about 4 1/2 dozen 2" cookies.

nearly every family receiving payments would receive an increase, the additional amount would not always be divided among all the members of the family receiving monthly checks. In some cases the entire increase will go to the retired worker.

Under terms of the law, most families will get an increase of about $5.50; some will get less, others will get more. A few benefits now being paid, and most of those payable in the future, will be based on earnings after 1950 instead of after 1936. The amended law provides a new formula for determining the amount of the payments in these cases. Under it, a retired worker's monthly benefit would be 55 per cent of the first $100.00 of his average monthly earnings plus 15 per cent of the remainder up to $300.00.

Beginning September 1, the new law will increase to $75.00 a month instead of $50.00 the amount of money a beneficiary may earn and still receive the monthly benefits. Self-employed people entitled to old-age and survivors insurance benefits may receive the payments for each month of the year if their net earnings during the entire year are not over $900.00.

The amended law contains a provision of special importance to self-employed people who have retired or plan to retire during 1952. Before the passage of the amendments their earnings for the year in which an application was made could not be used to figure their old-age benefit payments. Now, those self-employed people who originally applied for benefits in 1952 may re-apply at the close of the taxable year and have their 1952 earnings used in figuring their monthly benefit payments. In general, this will increase the monthly benefit payments to self-employed persons.

A similar change in the law now permits insured wage earners who retire in 1952 to have their wages for this year used immediately in figuring the amount of their benefit payments. Heretofore, it was necessary for them to come back after the end of the year in order to have all of their covered wages for 1952 included in the computation of the benefit amount.

Another amendment allows beneficiaries aged 75 or over already on the rolls to take advantage of the higher benefit payments provided under the new formula, if they have had at least a year and a half of covered work after 1950.

The amended law allows social security wage credits of $160.00 for each month of active military or naval service after July 24, 1947. This provision is simply an extension of the one which already gives social security wage credits to servicemen of World War II. It applies to service in the armed forces up to January 1, 1954.

Of advantage to the survivors of deceased service people is a provision in the amended law extending the time for claiming a lump-sum death payment. This applies to servicemen who die abroad and are later returned to the United States for burial or reburial. Survivors who pay the burial expenses may now claim reimbursement up to two years after the reburial instead of two years after the serviceman's death. Additional information on the new law may be obtained at the social security office in the Trenton Post Office Building.

For the convenience of residents of this area, a social security representative will be at the Bristol Post Office every Tuesday of each month between 10:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m.

Booklets for Servicemen To Be Provided by WSCS

HULMEVILLE, July 23 — Business transacted at the monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in Neshamony Methodist Church, last evening, was of a miscellaneous nature.

Miss Adeline E. Reetz, president, had arranged a worship center featuring the open Bible, picture of Christ, and flowers arranged in an open umbrella. Tying in with this was a portion of the devotional period, presented by Mrs. George Bilger, one article being on "The Umbrella Man."

Twenty-two were in attendance, they hearing minutes of June meeting as read by Miss Louise Doan; and treasurer's report presented by Mrs. Adolph Holzworth.

Miss Nellie E. Main, who was unable to be present, sent her reports. She provided a list of items most acceptable for a missionary serving in the hot African climate, in anticipation of sending of gifts by the unit. Upon suggestion of Miss Main, who is secretary of student and youth work, the organization decided to purchase as needed, copies of the booklet, "Strength for Service to God and Country," these to be provided the servicemen from this area.

Greeting card chairman, Mrs. George Fetter, Pennell, reported remembrances sent to four people. The picnic committee, Mrs. C. Wesley Haefner, chairman, told that 100 have signified to date that they will attend the Sunday School picnic next Saturday. Cars will leave from the church at 9:30 a. m. for Meigs Park, Perkassie.

A bake sale was scheduled for Saturday, August 9th, at 10:30, on the post office porch. The committee in charge includes: Mrs. Mildred Riley, Mrs. John deBruyn, Miss Marie Hanson, Mrs. Mark Shapcott, "Talent quarter" returns were made by Mrs. Harry Beck and Mrs. Haefner.

The Versatile Window Shade

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

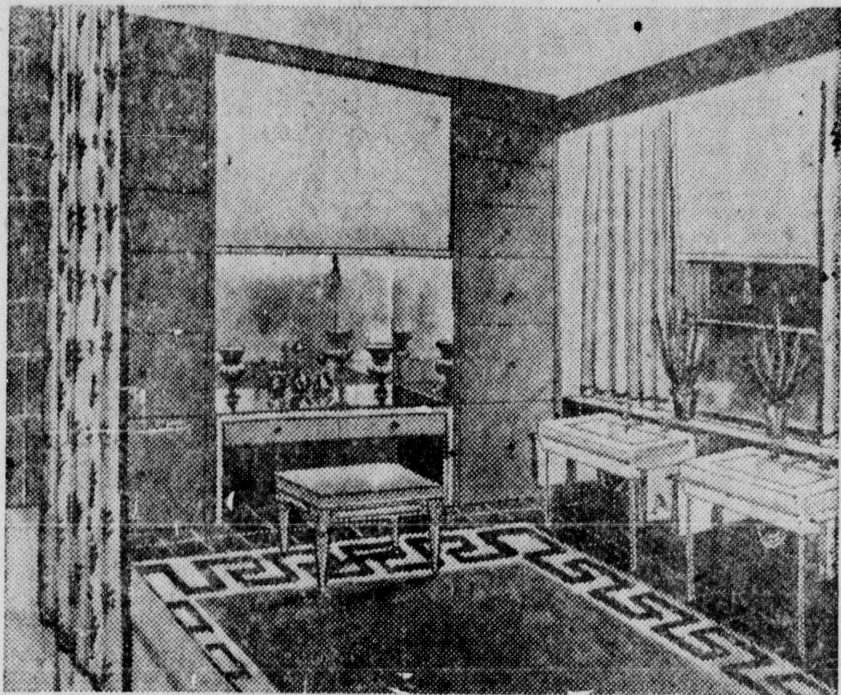

MODERN designers are doing their best to make practical home furnishings pretty, and they're succeeding wonderfully well. The window shade is the latest item to feel their magic touch.

Remember the old days when a shade was just something you had to buy, and one was as good as another because they all looked alike? Well, those days are gone forever. The newest window shades are decoratively designed, come in a variety of colors and instead of being drab and inconspicuous, they play a big part in making a room look its best. As for being practical, they're more so than before. Some of the new shades are made of high grade cotton impregnated and coated with plastic so that they're washable.

It's difficult to believe shades have become such attractive accessories, but if you want to see for yourself, a new booklet, "Windows Decoratively Shaded," shows you just what they can do.

In one room, for example, different color shades were used on a window wall divided into four sections. The colors—eggshell, sunset yellow, russet and autumn brown—were graduated tones of the same family and made a pleasing contrast in light to dark tones. The bottom of the windows were hung with cafe curtains of white sheer. Brown draperies framed the setting.

Another trick featured in the booklet was to use shades the same color as walls. At night, when shades are drawn, this color coordination gives a feeling of unity to the setting. Or, if you want to block off an unpleasant view, the booklet suggests that you install shades so they can be pulled up from the bottom of the window. This way you'll cut off the view and still permit light to stream into the room from the unshaded top of the window.

Because they're so decorative, colored window shades do a nice job of blocking off Pullman kitchens, concealing bunk beds or built-in storage units. They make inexpensive room dividers. They can dress up the exterior of a house, too, providing, of course, that they blend with the outside trim. If not, some of the shades are available with dark colors on one side, light colors on the other.

The booklet, "Windows Decoratively Shaded," is available free of charge. For the name and address of the distributor, send me a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of this paper.

IF YOU NEED a room divider, and can't afford to have a carpenter make one for you, three shades set in a wooden frame will do the job.

Sportsmanlike DRIVING

GET OUT ON THE CURB SIDE

Out of your car by the wrong door can be worse than "out of the frying pan into the fire!"

Get out of your car on the curb side, says the AAA driver training book, "Sportsmanlike Driving."

Cold shivers leap up and down the spine of the driver who suddenly sees a car door fly open on the street side and someone step right out into his path.

Next—a frantic shriek of brakes! And it's only luck if another terrified pedestrian isn't added to traffic fatality statistics!

Perhaps it is a little inconvenient to slide on the car seat a few feet to the right and leave by the curb-side door. But it's a lot more inconvenient to find yourself in a hospital with broken bones that won't mend overnight.

Getting out on the street side is not a sporting gesture. Perhaps you don't get hit yourself. But you can cause a car to crash into something else if a startled driver swerves to miss you.

Exit by the curb-side door!

Sportsmanlike DRIVING

GET OUT ON THE CURB SIDE

Out of your car by the wrong door can be worse than "out of the frying pan into the fire!"
Get out of your car on the curb side, says the AAA driver training book, "Sportsmanlike Driving."
Cold shivers leap up and down the spine of the driver who suddenly sees a car door fly open on the street side and someone step right out into his path.
Next—a frantic shriek of brakes! And it's only luck if another terrified pedestrian isn't added to traffic fatality statistics!

Perhaps it is a little inconvenient to slide on the car seat a few feet to the right and leave by the curb-side door. But it's a lot more inconvenient to find yourself in a hospital with broken bones that won't mend overnight.

Getting out on the street side is not a sporting gesture. Perhaps you don't get hit yourself. But you can cause a car to crash into something else if a startled driver swerves to miss you.

Exit by the curb-side door!

Time for a Beauty Inventory

Every woman can look lovely these days. Clothes are so attractive; there are wonderful new coiffures and make-up items.

By HELEN FOLLETT

IT is a dull woman who cannot endow herself with some element of beauty these days. Clothes are so smart, simple and pretty. Hair stylists are ready with suggestions. There's make-up of all kinds available. In the old days, there might be only one toast of the town, while nowadays pretty girls are all over the landscape. A bow and grateful thanks to the beauty industry!

Every woman should take inventory now and then, check on good points and those not so good. The hair should have luster, the skin should be soft and clear of color; that is possible if one will take care of one's health, anoint the complexion diligently and often.

Pretty and Pleading

A pretty mouth can lose charm if the expression is not pleasing. The lipstick must be used correctly—first outlining the borders, then filling in and using a lipstick brush for smooth, even distribution of color.

The beauty of the teeth depends upon their regularity and shining whiteness. They must not just be brushed; they must be polished, which means plenty of gentle friction and a first-class dentifrice.

Hands! All of them will pass, as size and contour mean little, if they are perfectly groomed—skin soft and white, nails not too long.

Eyebrows! That's where too many girls slip up. The tiny line that looks like a whip of black darning cotton is no longer au fait. Eyebrows should taper at both ends, be slightly wider in the center, should not be tweezed so much on the lower border that they are lifted beyond the natural position, which is along the eave of the eyesocket.

The neck! Don't neglect yours. Don't get the idea it will always stay firm. You cannot depend upon it without creaming care.

NEWTOWN

"EXTRA ROOM" HAS A BIG VARIETY OF USES

Polin Family Using It For A Bar With Chinese Motif

LEOPARD-SKIN CHAIRS

By Staff Reporter

LEVITTOWN, July 23 — What local residents do with the small extra room separated from the living room by a sliding partition is as varied as the people themselves are.

This room has a variety of uses, and it has been interesting to visit the Stonybrook homes to see what use the various families make of it. This is the area that adjoins the living room of the Levittowner and can serve as an extension of the living room or can be partitioned by a sliding panel to serve as a small extra room.

In the model homes in the exhibit area two uses of this space are shown. In one of the Levittowners models this room is a study, containing decorative drapes, a colorful studio couch, modernistic lamps and a desk. In the other model home the room resembles an outdoor patio garden. In the small table model that used to appear in the glass exhibit building, the room was shown as a children's bedroom, with bunk beds against one wall.

Those are three different ideas in use of this area. The new residents have provided many other uses. Probably the most unusual met by this reporter was that at the Polin home, 85 Stonybrook Drive, Max and "Chiffie" Polin are making an attractive bar out of the area. A bar will be painted to conform with the Chinese motif that the Polins use throughout much of the house. Two leopard skin chairs will form part of the

LEVITTOWN, July 23—After being apparently firmly rooted in the Pittsburgh district for 15 years, Joseph Mysliwiec, 58 Shade Tree Lane, tore up those roots and moved his wife, Florence, and five-year-old son, Craig, to this development when he received transfer to the Fairless Works.

Mysliwiec is a construction engineer with the U. S. Steel Corporation in Morrisville; he has an engineering degree from Akron University, Akron, Ohio. In any time he might get from the present rush of his job, he likes to golf.

Mrs. Mysliwiec, like her husband, a native Pittsburgher, enjoys crocheting and knitting. She says her husband is proud of the several pairs of argyle socks she has made for him. She is an ex-librarian, and before their taking of title to their Levittowner, they had lived temporarily in Langhorne Manor.

The small room off the living room they plan to use as just an extra room. They now have a studio couch in there, but Mrs. Mysliwiec also has a sewing machine there and will use it for her own work.

furniture decoration, and red drapes will be on the huge floor-to-ceiling window.

Celia and Joseph Shugart, 65 Stonybrook Drive, have a three-month old daughter and will use the space as a nursery for her. It should make an attractive baby headquarters. It can provide needed sunshine or it can be darkened with draperies. Too, it is close enough to the living area for the mother to keep watch on the child as she works, and the area can be shut off in the evening when the Shugarts have company.

At 6 Shade Tree Lane, Ira and

Emily Pimm have a couple of ideas in mind. Because Mrs. Pimm does much of her own sewing of draperies, dresses and baby clothes, she may use the space as a sewing room. Too, they may use it as a small dining room to entertain small groups when they want to get away from the kitchen atmosphere when dining.

The O'Connors, Andrew and Thelma, at 12 Shade Tree Lane, expect to have overnight guests on frequent occasions. They have a studio couch here and will use it as a guest room.

John and Shirley Jordan, 58 Silver Birch Lane, will close off the area to make a bedroom that will contain a desk, their record collection, and young Robert's model cars and airplanes.

George and Willette Mead, 16

Shade Tree Lane, will extend the living room area to include this space. William and Evelyn Murphy, 24 Shade Tree Lane, have a nine-year-old son, David, who is in fifth grade and has an exceptional artistic talent. They will make an art workshop for David in this space.

John and Marjorie Jersey, 28 Shade Tree Lane, are already making plans to add on to their present home. (Behind the garage), they will build an extra bedroom for their young son, then they will use the small room as a den.

These include just a few of the total number of people now living in the Stonybrook section. If they can make as many different uses of just one small room, imagine what some of the others may be doing.

This room has a variety of uses, and it has been interesting to visit the Stonybrook homes to see what use the various families make of it. This is the area that adjoins the living room of the Levittowner and can serve as an extension of the living room or can be partitioned by a sliding panel to serve as a small extra room.

In the model homes in the exhibit area two uses of this space are shown. In one of the Levittowners models this room is a study, containing decorative drapes, a colorful studio couch, modernistic lamps and a desk. In the other model home the room resembles an outdoor patio garden. In the small table model that used to appear in the glass exhibit building, the room was shown as a children's bedroom, with bunk beds against one wall.

Those are three different ideas in use of this area. The new residents have provided many other uses. Probably the most unusual met by this reporter was that at the Polin home, 85 Stonybrook Drive, Max and "Chiffie" Polin are making an attractive bar out of the area. A bar will be painted to conform with the Chinese motif that the Polins use throughout much of the house. Two leopard skin chairs will form part of the

LEVITTOWN, July 23 — After being apparently firmly rooted in the Pittsburgh district for 15 years, Joseph Mysliwiec, 58 Shade Tree Lane, tore up those roots and moved his wife, Florence, and five-year-old son, Craig, to this development when he received transfer to the Fairless Works.

Mysliwiec is a construction engineer with the U. S. Steel Corporation in Morrisville; he has an engineering degree from Akron University, Akron, Ohio. In any time he might get from the present rush of his job, he likes to go

Mrs. Mysliwiec, like her husband, a native Pittsburgher, enjoys crocheting and knitting. She says her husband is proud of the several pairs of argyle socks she has made for him. She is an ex-librarian, and before their taking of title to their Levittowner, they had lived temporarily in Langhorne Manor.

The small room off the living room they plan to use as just an extra room. They now have a studio couch in there, but Mrs. Mysliwiec also has a sewing machine there and will use it for her own work.

furniture decoration, and red drapes will be on the huge floor-to-ceiling window.

Celia and Joseph Shugart, 65 Stonybrook Drive, have a three-month old daughter and will use the space as a nursery for her. It should make an attractive baby headquarters. It can provide needed sunshine or it can be darkened with draperies. Too, it is close enough to the living area for the mother to keep watch on the child as she works, and the area can be shut off in the evening when the Shugarts have company.

At 6 Shade Tree Lane, Ira and

Emily Pimm have a couple of ideas in mind. Because Mrs. Pimm does much of her own sewing of draperies, dresses and baby clothes, she may use the space as a sewing room. Too, they may use it as a small dining room to entertain small groups when they want to get away from the kitchen atmosphere when dining.

The O'Connors, Andrew and Theima, at 12 Shade Tree Lane, expect to have overnight guests on frequent occasions. They have a studio couch here and will use it as a guest room.

John and Shirley Jordan, 58 Silver Birch Lane, will close off the area to make a bedroom that will contain a desk, their record collection, and young Robert's model cars and airplanes.

George and Willette Mead, 16

Shade Tree Lane, will extend the living room area to include this space. William and Evelyn Murphy, 24 Shade Tree Lane, have a nine-year-old son, David, who is in first grade and has an exceptional artistic talent. They will make an art workshop for David in this space.

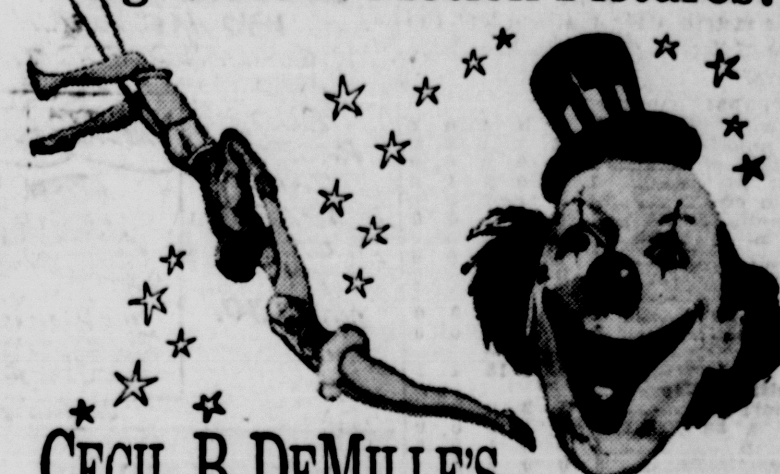

John and Marjorie Jersey, 28 Shade Tree Lane, are already making plans to add on to their present home. (Behind the garage), they will build an extra bedroom for their young son, then they will use the small room as a den.

These include just a few of the total number of people now living in the Stonybrook section. If they can make as many different uses of just one small room, imagine what some of the others may be doing.

PACIFIC STEEL KEEPS UP FIGHT FROM CELLAR

Pacific Steel continued its fight to vacate the cellar of the Bristol Softball League by nailing out 3M's, 5-4, last evening on Memorial field.

It was the third straight win for the boiler-makers and their newly-acquired hurler, "Whizzer" White.

White, although a trifle wild at times, kept the five Minnesota Miners hits well scattered. He had a bad frame, the fifth, in which the scotch-tape makers scored twice and came within one run of tying the score. Ciambella, the deadlocking run, was on second base when White retired Wallace and Lewis to end the inning.

Pacific Steel, held to four hits by George Wallace and Jim Katz, did all its scoring in the first and fourth cantos. In the first, Vince DiTanna rammed out a home run with Tom Ruggieri on base. Fred Costantino also hit safely in this inning and from then on, the boiler-makers had but one hit.

This blow was made by Ruggieri in the fourth after Wallace lost the range of the plate and walked three batters.

DEMOCRATS LOOK TO TRUMAN TO SHOW THE WAY

contributor Ed Pauley state confidently that the President is the "only solution."

His love of the party, they say, will overcome his solemn promises to his family, and to Democratic bigwigs gathered at last March's Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Washington.

Mr. Truman was pictured today as willing to give Stevenson one more chance to decline not only the apparent support of key delegations at the convention but also a White House blessing.

There is reason to believe that the President will place a time limit on Stevenson's decision. It will not be an extended period.

Mr. Truman, according to intimates, is deeply vexed by Stevenson's repeated refusals to go along with party wishes, and is finding it hard to forgive him for references made to "Trumanism" in talks with mutual friends.

But at the same time the President was pictured as so unwilling to run himself, and so assured that Stevenson is best fitted among the candidates to attract votes in November and carry on basic Fair Deal programs, that he is willing to forgive and forget—if Stevenson

"plays ball immediately," as one Truman friend put it.

Four other candidates still felt they had a chance to get Mr. Truman's nod today, if Stevenson bows out for keeps, refuses a draft, and Mr. Truman looks elsewhere.

One of these, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, tottered on the ropes yesterday when it appeared, after the Georgia delegation joined other Southern states in announcing its refusal to take the party "loyalty oath" that Russell was thus eliminated.

But he bounded back with a strong statement to the effect that his main troubles were coming from radical groups within the party—the same, he said, which succeeded in forcing Alben Barkley to quit. He would run, Russell stated, and by today there were scarcely any parliamentary obstacles in his path.

The "loyalty oath" had been watered down to transparency by a determined Southern bloc, and yielding unity — seeking Northern liberals, until it was but a "nullity," as Gov. Herman Talmadge said. Oaths will be taken, it now seems, but they are not binding on delegations whose state organizations had made other plans—such as waiting until next month to see whether they will support the ticket nominated in Chicago.

All thought of forcing delegations to pledge their support of the 1952 platform, including a compromise civil rights plank in the works, has been dropped.

So-called anti-Truman slates in Texas and Mississippi were seated after a long, wrangling day in committee. Seventy votes are involved.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, who had a "pleasant visit" with Averell Harriman last night—in a possible effort to form a bloc that would "avenge" Mr. Truman's hostility toward the Tennesseean and indifference to Harriman—was a behind-the-scenes supporter of the seated Texas-Mississippi slates.

Their seats will be contested today by ex-Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas, and others. But delegates, more concerned now over the "word" that will show them the "way to go home" probably will confirm the findings of the credentials committee.

The Democrats' foreign policy plank, exposed to view partially last night, promises "unremitting efforts to spare the world the agony of another world war," and pledges continued efforts through UN to end the Korean war. It is generally a restatement of Truman-Acheson foreign policies.

The labor plank denounces the Taft-Hartley Act as strongly as it did in 1948, and suggests a new labor act, collective bargaining for wages and other working conditions, equal pay for equal work regardless of sex, and asks increased protection for the health, safety and working conditions of migratory workers.

The overtures to Stevenson continued late into the night, after a day which saw perhaps a dozen states lay the jewels of their voting strength at his unimpressed feet.

It seemed to be all over when

Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, who expects to nominate Stevenson, jubilantly told newsmen that he had talked to Stevenson and the Illinois governor had assured him that he would accept a draft.

But Stevenson replied: "I have no comment on anything Gov. Schricker has said, except that when I last saw him I told him I wanted only to run for Governor of Illinois and I hoped he'd help me do it."

Late last night New and Fair Dealers Mike DiSalle, Rep. Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts, Archibald Alexander of New Jersey and Rep. Granger of Utah issued a statement extolling Stevenson.

Defeated Candidate Barkley will be given a chance to elaborate on the sinister-sounding reasons why he quit the race tonight. He has been invited by National Committee Chairman Frank McKinney to speak to the convention. The invitation changed the Vice-President's mind about leaving Chicago for his home.

Still hanging on in the race is Sen. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, whose supporters tonight clung to the hope that the convention would plunge itself into a balloting impasse, involving Stevenson on one side and a bloc on the other. Kerr's chances then would zoom, they felt.

Gales of feminine oratory swept the International Amphitheatre all day yesterday and well into the night, while the clanking machinery of the convention was being oiled in downtown meeting rooms. Hands-down winner was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, widow of the war-time President, who was given an ovation that shook not only the rafters but her new poodle haircut.

after members voted not to accept their resignation. The two men resigned when the Lower Bucks County School Authority named their bank as trustee of a bond issue to pay for construction of the $2,000,000 Neshaminy joint junior-high school in Middletown township. The trusteeship subsequently was awarded to the Farmers National Bank, of Bristol.

At last night's meeting the question of where school children of area would attend classes in September was raised by several members of the Parent-Teachers Association.

After lengthy discussion of the problem the board members agreed to place the matter in the hands of Dr. Oliver S. Heckman, supervising principal of the school district. Dr. Heckman was instructed to place the elementary pupils to the best of his ability, and report to the board at the next meeting.

Bids were opened for school supplies, and these were turned over to the administrative office for analysis. Some bids on fixing the Parkland school basements were rejected.

Presiding was John Paul.

contributor Ed Pauley state confidently that the President is the "only solution."

His love of the party, they say, will overcome his solemn promises to his family, and to Democratic bigwigs gathered at last March's Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Washington.

Mr. Truman was pictured today as willing to give Stevenson one more chance to decline not only the apparent support of key delegations at the convention but also a White House blessing.

There is reason to believe that the President will place a time limit on Stevenson's decision. It will not be an extended period.

Mr. Truman, according to intimates, is deeply vexed by Stevenson's repeated refusals to go along with party wishes, and is finding it hard to forgive him for references made to "Trumanism" in talks with mutual friends.

But at the same time the President was pictured as so unwilling to run himself, and so assured that Stevenson is best fitted among the candidates to attract votes in November and carry on basic Fair Deal programs, that he is willing to forgive and forget—if Stevenson

"plays ball immediately," as one Truman friend put it.

Four other candidates still felt they had a chance to get Mr. Truman's nod today, if Stevenson bows out for keeps, refuses a draft, and Mr. Truman looks elsewhere.

One of these, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, tottered on the ropes yesterday when it appeared, after the Georgia delegation joined other Southern states in announcing its refusal to take the party "loyalty oath," that Russell was thus eliminated.

But he bounded back with a strong statement to the effect that his main troubles were coming from radical groups within the party—the same, he said, which succeeded in forcing Alben Barkley to quit. He would run, Russell stated, and by today there were scarcely any parliamentary obstacles in his path.

The "loyalty oath" had been watered down to transparency by a determined Southern bloc, and yielding unity—seeking Northern liberals, until it was but a "nullity," as Gov. Herman Talmadge said. Oaths will be taken, it now seems, but they are not binding on delegations whose state organizations had made other plans—such as waiting until next month to see whether they will support the ticket nominated in Chicago.

All thought of forcing delegations to pledge their support of the 1952 platform, including a compromise civil rights plank in the works, has been dropped.

So-called anti-Truman slates in Texas and Mississippi were seated after a long, wrangling day in committee. Seventy votes are involved.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, who had a "pleasant visit" with Averell Harriman last night—in a possible effort to form a bloc that would "avenge" Mr. Truman's hostility toward the Tennessee and indifference to Harriman—was a behind-the-scenes supporter of the seated Texas-Mississippi slates.

Their seats will be contested today by ex-Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas, and others. But delegates, more concerned now over the "word" that will show them the "way to go home" probably will confirm the findings of the credentials committee.

The Democrats' foreign policy plank, exposed to view partially last night, promises "unremitting efforts to spare the world the agony of another world war," and pledges continued efforts through UN to end the Korean war. It is generally a restatement of Truman-Acheson foreign policies.

The labor plank denounces the Taft-Hartley Act as strongly as it did in 1948, and suggests a new labor act, collective bargaining for wages and other working conditions, equal pay for equal work regardless of sex, and asks increased protection for the health, safety and working conditions of migratory workers.

The overtures to Stevenson continued late into the night, after a day which saw perhaps a dozen states lay the jewels of their voting strength at his unimpressed feet. It seemed to be all over when

Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, who expects to nominate Stevenson, jubilantly told newsmen that he had talked to Stevenson and the Illinois governor had assured him that he would accept a draft.

But Stevenson replied: "I have no comment on anything Gov. Schricker has said, except that when I last saw him I told him I wanted only to run for Governor of Illinois and I hoped he'd help me do it."

Late last night New and Fair Dealers Mike DiSalle, Rep. Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts, Archibald Alexander of New Jersey and Rep. Granger of Utah issued a statement extolling Stevenson.

Defeated Candidate Barkley will be given a chance to elaborate on the sinister-sounding reasons why he quit the race tonight. He has been invited by National Committee Chairman Frank McKinney to speak to the convention. The invitation changed the Vice-President's mind about leaving Chicago for his home.

Still hanging on in the race is Sen. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, whose supporters tonight clung to the hope that the convention would plunge itself into a balloting impasse, involving Stevenson on one side and a bloc on the other. Kerr's chances then would zoom, they felt.

Gales of feminine oratory swept the International Amphitheatre all day yesterday and well into the night, while the clanking machinery of the convention was being oiled in downtown meeting rooms. Hands-down winner was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, widow of the war-time President, who was given an ovation that shook not only the rafters but her new poodle haircut.

had recently resigned, agreed to continue services to the board. They are: Thomas E. Coe, Jr., chairman of the financial committee and president of the Peoples National Bank and Trust Co., here; and Frank Mitchell, board treasurer, cashier of the Peoples Bank. They agreed to retain board membership

after members voted not to accept their resignation. The two men resigned when the Lower Bucks County School Authority named their bank as trustee of a bond issue to pay for construction of the $2,000,000 Neshaminy joint junior-senior high school in Middletown township. The trusteeship subsequently was awarded to the Farmers National Bank, of Bristol.

At last night's meeting the question of where school children of area would attend classes in September was raised by several members of the Parent-Teachers Association.

After lengthy discussion of the problem the board members agreed to place the matter in the hands of Dr. Oliver S. Heckman, supervising principal of the school district. Dr. Heckman was instructed to place the elementary pupils to the best of his ability, and report to the board at the next meeting.

Bids were opened for school supplies, and these were turned over to the administrative office for analysis. Some bids on fixing the Parkland school basements were rejected.

Presiding was John Paul.
